

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A rapid analysis method for the determination of polymer average molecular weight separates the polymer's high molecular weight fraction and determines its average molecular weight using a molar mass detector and a concentration detector. The method avoids time consuming sample preparation, allows for separation of interfering low molecular weight components, and is suitable for automation.

10 AND AND BUILD BUILD OF APPEARS AND THE TOP AND THE TOP

5